

Tourism Hospitality

Practice: Types of accommodation in hospitality industry

Match the following terms with their meaning:

1. The arrangement is usually for multiple people to share the same living space. In this sense, guests pay for their beds rather than paying for a room. They use bunk beds to maximize the number of guests they can fit.

Hostel

2. They provide a room and access to additional amenities and services, including food, housekeeping, concierge, Wi-Fi, and more (restaurant, bar.)

Hotel

3. They are aimed at motorists. They are typically situated near major roads and along major routes, and rooms are usually accessible directly from the parking lot for maximum convenience.

Motel

4. They are similar in concept to hotels, but they are designed to function as a self-contained development that can be described as a holiday destination.

Resorts

5. They offer overnight stays and breakfast in the morning. These properties are usually much smaller than hotels

Bed and Breakfasts B&B

6. They are private homes that have been converted to provide guest accommodation. The hosts may reside in a separate part of the property to give guests more privacy.

Guest House

7. They are small homes that are used for short-term guest accommodation. Guests are responsible for making their own arrangements for food and other needs.

Holiday cottages

8. They are self-contained units, typically with defined kitchens, bedrooms, bathrooms, and living rooms.

Apartments

9. They are usually associated with rural areas. Made entirely from whole or split logs, giving them a simpler structure.

Cabins

10. They refer to buildings designed with Alpine styling, as the concept originated in Switzerland and France.

Chalets

11. They float on water, but typically stay in one place.

Houseboats

12. These are permanently moored boats adapted to provide hotel-style accommodation experiences. The 'botel' concept is especially popular in Europe, but has risen in popularity in other parts of the world too.
